

HOUSING SCHEME APPROVED 'AFTER YEARS OF DELAY'

CAMPAIGNERS hoping to prevent a controversial development going ahead in Wards Corner have promised to continue their fight despite a significant setback.

Developer Grainger PLC has been granted permission by Haringey Council to build housing and shops on the site above Seven Sisters railway station, in Seven Sisters Road.

However, there has been widespread opposition to the scheme, which would see many buildings demolished, including one that once housed the historic Wards department store.

And there are fears that other businesses, such as those in the bustling Pueblito Paisa covered market, will go to the wall as they will have to move during building work and then may not be able to afford potentially higher rents on their return.

The Wards Corner Community coalition had applied for a judicial review of the council's decision to grant planning permission to Grainger.

WCC argued that when making the decision the council had ignored its own policy documents and instead used an independent report commissioned by Grainger.

The coalition also said that Haringey failed to carry out an environmental impact assessment of the proposals and they argued that councillors were misled about the likelihood of restoring the covered market in the Grainger development.

The application had twice been refused by judges and despite appeals by WCC, those decisions were upheld at the Royal Courts of Justice last Wednesday.

James Skinner, of WCC, said: "It is such an injustice that none of the judges engaged with the arguments our legal team put forward.

"It means that Haringey's poor planning decisions will go unchallenged.

Controversial: Wards Corner is to be revamped despite fierce opposition

"Scrutiny of council decisions is absolutely critical now as they push for more and more developer-led regeneration and ignore the needs of local communities."

But he added: "There is still a lot to do at Wards Corner – the fight is far from over. We are still calling for collaboration with the council and Grainger for a community-led solution for the site that meets everyone's needs.

"So many people have built their homes, businesses and communities around Wards Corner and we won't sit by and let this unique place be demolished."

Haringey Council leader Claire Kober said: "We welcome the judgment, which means that we can finally put years of unnecessary delay behind us and move forward with this major regeneration of Seven Sisters, which is central to Tottenham's future.

"It is our responsibility to act in the best interests of the majority of local people, many of whom have told us they support our ambitions and want to see Seven Sisters get the improvements it deserves.

"We are excited that at last we can press ahead with breathing new life into our community and bring modern new homes, hundreds of jobs and the better mix of shops and markets that residents want to see.

"This development will become a 21st-century gateway to Tottenham and we look forward to working with the current traders – including stallholders in the existing market who are set to benefit from significant improvements – and the community to make these plans a reality."

David Walters, development director at Grainger, added: "We are pleased with the judgment which provides us with an incontestable planning permission.

"We have worked extremely hard over the last few years to ensure the scheme will deliver the investment and regeneration that Seven Sisters so clearly needs and for which there is so much local support."

Councillor in court charged with perverting course of justice

FORMER Haringey Council environment chief Nilgun Canver appeared at Wood Green Crown Court last week charged with attempting to pervert the course of justice. Ms Canver, who resigned her cabinet role and was suspended by the Labour Party before her initial court hearing, was in the dock last Wednesday.

She was told to reappear at the same court on October 23 for a plea hearing.

Peek behind scenes during Open House

INQUISITIVE residents keen to peek behind closed doors can do just that during this month's Open House weekend.

It is taking place on September 21 and 22 and London highlights include 10 Downing Street, The View from the Shard, The Gherkin and Battersea Power Station.

Closer to home, there are 21 different venues to be explored across Haringey, plus three guided walks in Muswell Hill, Tottenham and Tower Gardens Suburb.

You can go behind the scenes at Muswell Hill Odeon cinema, in Fortis Green Road, Television Studio A and Theatre at Alexandra Palace, Tottenham Town Hall and the church tower at St Mary's Hornsey.

While some attractions are on a first-come, first-served basis, others require advance booking. All are free to attend.

Early years project lands Lottery grant

A PROJECT in Haringey enabling struggling parents to give their children the best start in life has been awarded a grant worth almost £400,000 from the Big Lottery Fund.

Children's charity Barbardo's is leading a scheme across Bruce Grove, Northumberland Park, Tottenham Hale and White Hart Lane, aiming to bring together support groups and providers offering help for parents and parents-to-be.

The £395,142 of funding will be used to create a support network capable of offering help with breastfeeding, securing safe play areas and making sure kids do not miss out on fresh fruit and vegetables.

Opinions divided as Tory duo vote in debate on Syria crisis de Bois defies party line...while Burrowes backs Prime Minister

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE borough's Conservative MPs were on opposing sides of the Syria debate last week when Nick de Bois broke with his party and voted against the possibility of taking military action against the Assad regime.

The MP for Enfield North was one of 40 coalition MPs who joined forces with Labour to defeat the government's motion to inflict a military strike against Syrian president Bashar al-Assad, who is suspected of using chemical weapons against civilians.

"It was always a question of personal judgment for me," said Mr de Bois, who is the secretary of the influential 1922 Committee, explaining why he was prepared to defy the leadership of his own party.

"I weighed carefully the views of former senior military officers who convinced me the proposal for a military intervention was flawed."

The defiance of some Conservative MPs meant that headlines were dominated by discussion of David Cameron's leadership, with rumours circulating that some party rebels would see this as the ideal opportunity to oust the Prime Minister.

But Mr de Bois is adamant that for him it was never about inflicting a bloody nose on Mr Cameron and insisted that, in fact, if anything, the PM's reaction to the vote has strengthened his position.

He added: "Mr Cameron took the issue to parliament and was quick to respect the view of parliament. Whatever your views on this awful civil war in Syria, fair-minded people will, I believe, conclude that the parliamentary democracy process has been strengthened and Mr Cameron's personal reputation, having accepted the outcome, has, I believe, emerged enhanced not diminished."

However, his colleague David Burrowes, MP for Enfield Southgate, was on the other side of the divide, and is convinced that Assad cannot be allowed to get away with gassing civilians.

"I voted for the principle of humanitarian intervention to prevent further chemical attacks of which it may prove necessary, after UN inspection and resolution, to use military force," he said.

"My main frustration is that the message coming from parliament was one of inaction and sitting on the sidelines while a crime against humanity has taken place."

Labour MP for Edmonton Andy Love did not vote. His office had not said what he was doing by the time the Advertiser went to press.

Crowds flock to Palmers Green Festival finale

BROOMFIELD Park was packed with people on Sunday as revellers wrapped up a week of community events for the Palmers Green Festival.

The park buzzed with activity throughout the day as crowds flooded into the zoned areas throughout the park, in Aldermans Hill, Palmers Green, which included salsa classes and funfair rides as well as copious amounts of food stalls.

Raving at the success of the second annual festival, treasurer Karl Brown admitted he was thrilled at how the day had passed off.

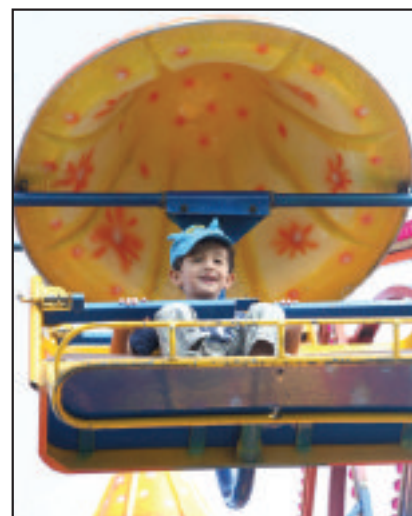

"It was quite extraordinary – it was better than we could have ever hoped for," he said, "although I didn't have time to stop for lunch from about 6am until 4.30pm.

"The weather for the day was perfect and the numbers on Sunday were at least a third, or possibly half again, on last year – we can't count.

"But there were a lot across all three main zones and the funfair from 2pm."

Mr Brown added: "Thanks to all who contributed, to Enfield Council for its support and Winkworth of Palmers Green for sponsoring the festival itself, so allowing free enjoyment for so many."

Up in the air: Four-year-old Sauren Singh enjoys one of the fairground rides

Dispersal zone targets antisocial behaviour

Six-month order is now in place across Southgate Green

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD Council and the police have launched a radical solution in response to reports of spiralling antisocial behaviour in the south-west of the borough.

Since Sunday, the whole of Southgate Green ward has been subject to a dispersal order that will run for six months until March next year.

The new order gives police the power to break up groups of two or more people if they believe their behaviour is causing a nuisance, harassment or distress to others.

The police can then move people on and stop them from returning to anywhere within the zone for 24 hours, unless they live in the area.

The council's cabinet member for the environment Chris Bond told the Advertiser that the ramped-up measures were developed after a spate of reports of antisocial behaviour in the area around Arnos Grove Tube station, in Bowes Road.

"The council and its partners are committed to making Enfield a safer place for everyone and we are confident the changes we are introducing in Arnos Grove will discourage crime, improve detection rates and make people feel safer," said Mr Bond.

He stressed that, along with the dispersal zone, the council has invested thousands of pounds on a state-of-the-art network of CCTV cameras throughout the borough.

As reported two weeks ago, traders and businesses in Bowes Road, near the Underground station, said they were reaching breaking point over groups of youths loitering in the area in an intimidating manner.

Southgate Green councillor Henry Lamprecht, who has been leading calls for action, said he was relieved that the order had been introduced.

"Hopefully, this will continue for a long time so we cannot just have this as a quick-fix, short-term solution but also it will have a lasting impact on the area," he said.

Teenager seriously injured in gang attack

A TEENAGER was chased down and attacked by a gang of four men, who left him bleeding and beaten in an Edmonton alleyway.

The 17-year-old was walking with two friends along Fore Street last Wednesday night when a white Vauxhall Astra pulled up next to the group.

Four men leapt out of the car and chased the teenager down an alleyway beside Angel Corner Parade and beat him up.

An ambulance was called to the scene at about 11.50pm and paramedics discovered the teenager lying in the alleyway bleeding from a serious head wound.

He was taken to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, where he is said to be in a stable condition.

The four suspects are described as black men in their 20s.

One was wearing a black T-shirt and another was wearing a grey tracksuit top.

Police are appealing for witnesses and anyone with information should call Detective Constable Rob Delaney, from Enfield Police, on 020 8345 4469, or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Quick to help:
Traffic warden
Berk Tankut

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO parking officers threw aside their ticket books and joined a desperate bid to save a car driver's life.

Parking enforcement officers Berk Tankut and Orcun Adak were on duty in Hertford Road, Enfield, on August 22 when they saw police officers frantically trying to resuscitate a driver who had just crashed in the road.

Parking attendant supervisor Berk, 34, told the Advertiser how the two became involved in a desperate bid to keep the driver alive.

"As we came to the junction with Nightingale Road we saw a police officer trying to drag a man out of a car that had crashed – and then we realised the guy had some kind of heart problem as the officer was trying to perform CPR," he said.

The first aider rushed to help and made sure that the driver's airway was clear while the police officers attempted CPR compressions.

Despite the fact the man was not breathing and had no pulse, the police officers and Berk refused to give up.

"One of the officers said, 'I am not giving up' and he must have done around 200 or 300 compressions and then the ambulance arrived," he said.

While Berk was delivering vital first aid, his colleague Orcun diverted traffic around the scene to avoid any further accidents.

It is not the first time Berk has come to the rescue in the borough.

He said he had made a bit of a name for himself in parking enforcement company NSL's Palmers Green office.

The team supervisor added: "My nickname in the office is 'The Hero'."

The driver, who is believed to be in his 50s, is recovering in hospital.

Leading the fight: Workshop organiser Garry Kousoulou speaking at last week's event

More education vital to Teenage victims of online trolls delivered a powerful message at workshop, reports Ruth McKee

A GROUP of parents sit in a windowless conference room listening and frowning slightly as two teenagers reveal how cyber bullies can invade every aspect of a young person's life – leaving some victims feeling “as if you just want to disappear”.

The young victims talk fluently and with passion about the insidious nature of our online world. They explain how it can reach its tentacles into your life until it can feel that there is nowhere to escape to.

And that even when you go home at the end of the school day, the bullies are still there, just waiting for you to look at your mobile phone or switch on your computer.

St Anne's Catholic High School student Ellie Huckle, 16, and 15-year-old Narise Joyram, from Enfield County School, were delivering a talk based on their own knowledge of cyber bullying.

It formed part of Loving Social Media's cyber bullying workshop at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, last Friday.

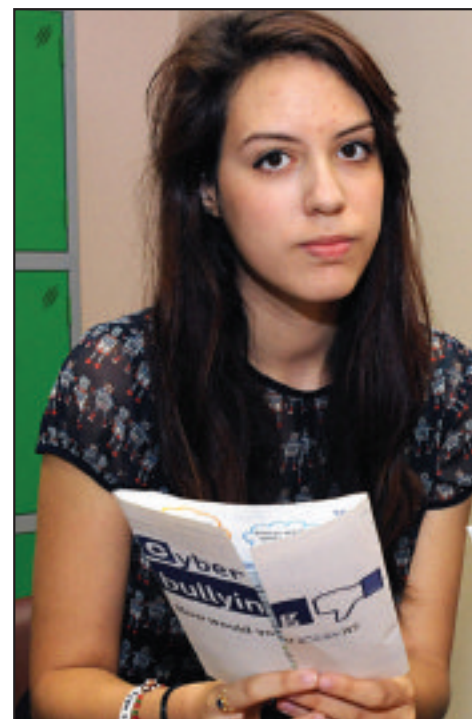

The workshop, run by social media guru Garry Kousoulou, is the first step in the father-of-four's bid to shape Enfield into a flagship borough leading the way against online bullying.

Speaking after delivering her speech, Narise said that she was tormented by bullies who, she felt, preyed on her vulnerability and youth.

Giving a measured explanation of how the tormentors slowly tore apart every aspect of her life, the schoolgirl and part-time jewellery designer detailed that at one stage the bullies faked a What's App account in her name.

By assigning her name and picture to a fake contact they were able to make it look as if Narise had been nasty about her classmates.

“When I tried to explain to everyone that the message had been faked, one of them said, ‘Who has the time to make up a fake What's App account?’.

“But these sick people do – it consumes them – that's what they spend their lives doing.

“It was when I was being attacked in person, when the online messages merged with real life, stopping cyber bullies

Speaking out:
Ellie Huckie,
16, and Narise
Joyram, 15

that's when I got to breaking point."

It is the anonymity of internet trolls that Narise believes gives them their power.

"Social predators can spot when someone is vulnerable, and when you are at your lowest ebb they use their influence over you for their own ends," she added.

The theme of sick individuals spending their lives trying to upset people when they are at a low point seems to be a common thread, as Ellie also revealed.

Seemingly bemused by the callousness of some people, she explained that when her family's pet cat died she was targeted on social media site Twitter by someone she didn't even know. "Someone made up a Twitter account in the name of my dead cat and started targeting me," said Ellie.

While admitting that it didn't affect her that much, the teenager thinks that it is a sign of how easy it is for some people to attack people they don't even know.

Ellie said that is purely to get a reaction from their victim. But both girls are adamant that banning mobile phones and computers or blocking certain websites is not the way to beat the bullies.

"Cutting people off can just make you feel more isolated," explained Ellie, who thinks that a much better way to tackle the problem is to educate adults in spotting the signs of when someone is suffering from cyber bullying.

It is a message echoed by Garry himself.

He told the workshop: "When a drunk driver crashes their car and kills someone, do we blame the car? Of course, we don't - we blame the person."

"And the same should be true of cyber bullying."

However, Garry wearily admits often the social media can seem like a many-headed beast and that as soon as parents have mastered the art of Twitter, another fad they haven't even heard of raises its head.

This is why the social media guru is advocating teaching parents the ins and outs of every site their children may be on. But he wants his campaign to be broader and he used last Friday's workshop to unveil one of his latest strategies.

Garry, who is also an optician, wants social media ambassadors in schools where they could act as a "safe adult" and be alerted when someone wants to report bullying in a confidential way.

His plan is for these school ambassadors, whom he would be prepared to train, to be in schools across the borough in order to safeguard the welfare of pupils online.

"Wouldn't it be brilliant if Enfield could lead the way on this and stop anything like the tragedy of Hannah Smith from happening again?" added Garry, referring to a Leicestershire teenager who killed herself after being bullied online.

Multiple benefits to fighting obesity

SPENDING £1,000 on each child taking part in summer camps to fight obesity may seem a costly expense, but if the scheme is successful it could save the borough money in the long run.

Obesity is a major issue for Enfield because in 2010/11 our reception children were the heaviest in the capital – and getting on top of weight issues early will ensure a lifetime of savings for the authorities.

There will be savings in health care as well as social care, plus there will be emotional savings as kids can be particularly cruel to their peers and a childhood of bullying often has a knock-on effect on adult life.

By educating these children about how to change their lifestyles, they will be able to influence youngsters around them to make better choices and will also be able to pass on their knowledge to their future families.

Missing the vote

WHY Edmonton MP Andy Love missed the vote in the House of Commons which ruled out British participation in military intervention in Syria remains a mystery.

Prime Minister David Cameron had recalled Parliament in the wake of the chemical weapons attack, but with the shadow of Tony Blair's "dodgy dossier" on Iraq looming large over Westminster, the government was defeated after failing to convince MPs that the Syrian leadership was responsible.

In a statement, Mr Love said he was also uncertain about what impact military strikes would have on progress towards a political solution to the civil war.

His position is laudable and, therefore, another reason he should have been present. He would have been able to contribute to the repair of some of the damage caused by Mr Blair's invasion of Iraq ten years ago.

Voters deserve no less.

Have you seen my lost ring?

ON the morning of June 6, I attended a Woman's Job Fair at the Dugdale Centre in Enfield.

As I left the building around noon, I believe my ring fell from my hand-bag pocket as I retrieved something else, right outside the main entrance.

It is big, new and silver coloured with small green crystals engraved into it in an intertwined fashion.

This ring has great sentimental value and I have reported the missing item to management at the Dugdale Centre, but nothing has been returned. All the staff have been briefed on this incident.

I would be very grateful if some good Samaritan could hand it back to Nicholas Coult, the manager of the Dugdale Centre.

□ If you have found the ring, you can also contact the Advertiser's newsdesk on 020 8364 4040.

Unfair to pay if trains don't run

FIRST Capital Connect is currently running trains for only six days a week on the Hertford North and Welwyn lines, yet charges season ticket holders for seven days.

The train operator says this is due to engineering works.

It is outrageous and prices should fall and season ticket holders be compensated accordingly.

I am not even sure if it is legal, let alone ethical.

The Mickey Mouse bus service that they provide as a substitute does not go to any working railway stations and always goes by the most circuitous route.

Atheist replies

I WOULD just like to thank Messrs Morgan and Phippin for their considered replies to my earlier letter (Letters, Advertiser, August 28).

Their points amply reinforced my original argument with claims about imaginary friends or an elusive phantom, for which I will be eternally grateful.

Rally: Thousands have shown their opposition to downgrading services at Chase Farm

Who to trust?

ARE those employed to manage our NHS totally free to ignore the opinion of the public who pay for the services and their employment?

It does seem like it, when thousands marched against the downgrade of Chase Farm Hospital, wrote letters and signed petitions and then are ignored.

What possible advantage can it give Chase Farm to be managed under the foundation trust of the Royal Free Hospital, which is closer to Hampstead Heath than Enfield?

We have had more than enough empty promises and Chase Farm has suffered under them.

To start with there were promises that if Barnet Hospital was joined with Chase Farm under one trust management team, it would save on management costs and both hospitals would retain their full services. But we all know that during the years the Barnet Hospital buildings were upgraded by PFI debts, plans drawn up to upgrade Chase Farm were dropped, saddled with this debt.

Ten years ago there were proposals to downgrade Chase Farm with plans to remove its major services.

Some land at Chase Farm was sold for private housing. Later plans were rejected for a greater area of the estate for private housing mix.

It's all about money.

Politicians made promises before the elections, but it was all a sham to get elected.

Now whom can we trust with November near and NHS services in the communities not in place?

Thames Water's focus is our customers, not shareholders

VICKI Pite claimed (Environment Matters column, Advertiser, August 21) that since privatisation Thames Water "has listened less to what society wants and more to the narrow interests of its private shareholders".

This is simply not the case.

Returns to our shareholders are dwarfed by our £1 billion a year of work to improve services for customers by upgrading ageing pipes, sewers and other facilities.

This includes activity at Deepfams sewage works to improve treatment quality and reduce odour.

Between 2010 and 2015 we are investing £5bn, more than any UK water company ever has – while our customers' bills remain the second lowest in the country. The result is leakage levels, tap water quality and sewage works compliance are close to their best-ever levels.

It is also worth noting that between 1979 and 1989, customers' water bills across England and Wales rose on average seven per cent a year above inflation.

Since privatisation in 1989, bills have risen two per cent a year above inflation with annual investment doubling.

School annex work should not go ahead

RE: The new (George Spicer) school annex in Kimberley Gardens, Enfield.

Residents have been put on notice that the construction of a prefabricated building will begin in a few weeks' time.

This is despite 120 people attending a planning meeting, raising a petition of 520 signatures, and making 100 individual objections.

The novel aspect is that parents and teaching staff are to be segregated. The parents will have to go down a long cul-de-sac to a car park 800metres from a main road.

They will then be expected to walk 400m back through an alley between allotments and high garden fences to a rear entrance.

I have sent evidence of health/education/car pollution issues that will arise by doubling the size of the present school.

It has been reported that parents on the school run are subject to mugging when parking in side streets.

There is also the prospect of being attacked by excitable dogs there.

Although the dangers of the project have been raised several times, Enfield Council still intends to proceed.

Flats a blot on the landscape

HAVING just travelled through Enfield Town from the west to east, I was struck by a monstrosity of a building devouring the skyline.

Everyone must know the building to which I am referring – the New River Apartments.

It is certainly not in contour with the quaint buildings for which Enfield is renowned.

I would like to know who in their right mind gave permission for this sort of complex?

At least the flats built where the Rialto cinema was (off Church Street) are in line with the surrounding area.

Bad decision, Enfield Council.

Police are fighting back

RE: The front-page article "Fighting back" (Advertiser, August 21).

The following response highlights the work undertaken and the results achieved by Enfield Police and the ongoing work we have been doing to address anti-social behaviour in Southgate Green ward.

We can assure residents and business owners in Southgate Green that following the rise in anti-social behaviour in the ward in June of this year and the reported damage to the newly-built play area, a plan has been developed by the local safer neighbourhood team to reduce incidents in the high road and nearby residential areas.

We have agreed to respond to all reported incidents of anti-social behav-our and all victims are contacted and visited by a member of the team.

We have had a Dome Hawk camera and street light sensors fitted in the high road in the N11 area at the junction with Weld Place.

Patrols by Enfield Estates Team have also increased in the area.

The ward has also seen an increase in staffing which has provided additional officers to deal with offenders more robustly.

Southgate Green SNT has gathered evidence to support the implementation of a dispersal zone and anti-social behaviour orders relating to four individuals.

Since June the team has arrested more than 20 people for offences of criminal damage to motor vehicle, possession of cannabis, criminal damage to property, and proceeds of crime, money laundering, possession of controlled drugs with intent to supply, assault, and shoplifting.

We have also issued fixed penalty notices for street drinking and riding on the footway, seized three vehicles and issued a warning notice to a youth concerning his manner of driving on a moped.

The SNT continues to liaise with all those affected by this through regular CAPE meetings and daily patrols.

We continue to work with our borough partners, residents and businesses to tackle anti-social behaviour.

Inspector Nikki Reynolds

Councillor was wrong to criticise

AS a businessman in Enfield, I was surprised by the letter that Councillor Martin Prescott wrote in your paper last week, criticising the council's economic performance.

Cllr Prescott, pictured, is a Conservative politician, so it's no surprise he attacks a Labour-run council.

However, his arguments do not make sense.

Firstly, he wrote that unemployment in Enfield has only been high since 2010.

But Enfield business people know that the borough's industries were suffering well before then.

Mr Prescott wrote that the Labour council is against small business.

Enterprise Enfield.

Mr Prescott can say what he wants, but I find it hard to trust his business sense when all he does is criticise other people's good work.

Fantastic news

WHAT fantastic news – Enfield is gaining a medical school.

Ruth McKee's report that the Allianz University College of Medical Science has bought Trent Park campus was very interesting to read.

The new university will bring variety and excitement into Enfield. As well as concentrating on their studies, I hope the medical students will have time to enjoy what Enfield has to offer as well as dashing to London on the Tube.

This new university is a fitting replacement for the creative writing faculty that had moved to Hendon.

As well as the potential for authentic restaurants and shops, it may breathe life into Chase Farm Hospital.

Shattered: Mehmet and Hulya Mehmet, whose son Adem died in a crash in The Ridgeway, Enfield

Heartbroken mum calls for Ridgeway speed limit review after fatal car crash

By Daniel O'Brien

daniel.obrien@nlhnews.co.uk

THE family of a restaurant manager who was killed in a car crash in Enfield have called for an urgent safety review of a busy main road.

The mother of Adem Mehmet says her "heart has been shattered" following the fatal collision in The Ridgeway, between Botany Bay and the M25, at about 1.30am on Saturday, August 24.

The 24-year-old was driving to his family home in Edgware after working an evening shift at American-style restaurant TGI Friday's Enfield, where he was a manager, when his Toyota MR2 is believed to have collided with an out-of-service bus and ended up in a ditch.

He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Adem's mother Hulya, 48, paid tribute to her "one in a million" son. "He was the light of my life and my best friend," she said. "He was just a hard-working, honest person. He had so much going for him, I can't tell you. He was one in a million.

"He always had a smile on his face and he would give you his time and help you if he could. His death has left a tremendous gap. All I can say is that my heart has been shattered."

Adem's funeral took place on Monday. Sister, Shansel, 26, added that she felt "numb". "He was more like an older brother in that he was a lot wiser than me and always guiding me," she said.

After studying law at the University of Westminster, Adem joined TGI Friday's in February 2008, and worked his way up from waiter to barman, to trainee to general manager at the branch in Southbury Road.

The restaurant has asked the family to donate the vest from his uniform, which is covered with badges marking various achievements, so it can be framed and displayed. Hulya added: "The tributes have been amazing. Everybody has written such lovely things. I am so touched."

She is calling on Enfield Council to urgently review its traffic measures on the stretch of The Ridgeway leading up to the M25, where the speed limit is the national limit of 60 miles per hour.

She said: "We all got together and laid flowers there and I said we needed to say something to the council. We were just standing there and the cars were speeding down the road and skidding. They were screeching their tyres."

Cabinet member for environment Chris Bond said: "This was a serious road accident resulting in the tragic loss of a young life and my sympathy goes out to the parents."

"We are working with the police and visiting the site with them to see if any lessons can be learned. However, following new guidance from the Department for Transport, the council started to review the speed limit in July. We expect to conclude our review by the end of September."

'A very good man' – friend's tribute to minicab driver

Ahmet, 54, was victim of collision

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid to a "saint-like" man who died when his minicab was involved in a three-vehicle collision in Palmers Green.

Ahmet Vural, 54, of Edmonton, was driving his green Ford Galaxy when it collided with a black BMW 3 series and a 29 bus near the junction of Aldermans Hill and Green Lanes in the early hours of Saturday, August 24.

The father-of-one had been a driver for Station Cars, in Southbury Road, Enfield Town, since 2005. And the company's managing director Mehmet Combat told the Advertiser that his death had had a huge impact on his colleagues and friends.

"He was like a saint to some of the drivers here," said Mr Combat. "He was quite a religious person and was a very placid guy – the way he used to explain things to people so eloquently and always with a smile on his face.

"Everyone who knew him – not just his colleagues but customers and friends – have been deeply affected by his death. Regular clients of his have even been donating money into a fund we set up here to help his family."

Ahmet leaves behind his wife of 12 years, Tuba, and an 11-year-old daughter.

A close friend, Mehmet Cetin, who had known Ahmet for 25 years, added: "He will be very much missed by everyone who knew him. He was a very good man."

Much missed: Ahmet Vural

A post-mortem gave the cause of death as head and chest injuries. An inquest was opened and adjourned at Barnet coroner's court last week.

The driver of the BMW, a 24-year-old man, has been arrested and released on police bail.

The Road Death Investigation Unit at Chadwell Heath Traffic Garage is investigating the collision. Any witnesses are asked to call 020 8597 4874.

Single mum's fury over home schooling advice

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MOTHER has been given advice about educating her child at home after she failed to get a place at her local primary school.

Eyla Ali, a single mum of The Mall, Southgate, is among a group of parents who have formed South West Enfield Action Team, which is campaigning for an increase in primary school provision in the south-west of the borough.

She feels frustrated after missing out on a place for her four-year-old daughter Lara at Walker Primary School, which is located just a few hundred metres up the road from their home, in The Green, Waterfall Road.

"The way it works is that special needs children get priority, then siblings of pupils at the school and finally the distance to the school counts – apparently I don't live close enough," said the 35-year-old, who also failed to get Lara into Eversley Primary School, in Chaseville Park Road, Winchmore Hill.

"It is ridiculous," she told the Advertiser. "I want my daughter to go to a local school."

After she was offered and refused a place at Garfield Primary School, in Springfield Road, New Southgate, Ms Ali was sent an information pack from Enfield Council about educating her daughter at home. "It's not an option," she added. "I'd have to quit my job to do that."

The council, which last year embarked on a primary school expansion programme aimed at providing an additional 1,680 places by 2017/18, said all parents who applied on time were offered primary school places for their children in April.

The new school year begins this week and there are currently 90 children whose parents or carers have not yet accepted the places they were allocated.

Gonul Daniels, of Bourne Hill, a mother of two-year-old twins, who heads the campaign, said: "Members of our group live close to schools but have to go to as far as Edmonton because there are not enough places."

"There is a black hole in this area. We believe that Walker should be expanded and we support the early proposals for a new school in Grovelands Park."

Campaigning: Parents and kids outside Walker Primary School

The number of oversubscribed primary schools in the borough this year is 24.

Marie Garside, acting head-teacher at Walker Primary School, said: "Every year we have people who are left disappointed, but we have only 60 reception places and they are allocated fairly by the council's admissions service."

The council also confirmed that there are currently 11 children due to start secondary school this week whose parents had not yet accepted a place.

Cat Hill campaign calls on residents to press mayor to halt development

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE fight against a 231-home development on the border of Enfield and Barnet rumbles on as a campaigner has urged residents to lobby the Mayor of London over the issue.

Kim Coleman, of Mansfield Avenue, Barnet, is renewing calls for the community to band together against plans which would see several five-storey blocks and 59 terraced houses built in Cat Hill, Cockfosters.

The developers of the site which was once home to a Middlesex University campus were given the go-ahead by Enfield Council's planning committee in March – but Ms Coleman believes there is still a chance to stop the scheme by writing to Boris Johnson, who is currently looking at the authority's decision.

"The Mayor of London has said he will take into consideration the strength of public opinion over a planning issue," she said.

"I urge residents to write to him. Even if they have written already, I say write again."

According to Ms Coleman, the mayor's office has the power to re-examine the decision if questions remain.

Although the development is a mix of social and affordable housing, Ms Coleman denies that opposition to the scheme is based on social snobbery or worries that house prices in an affluent area would be affected.

"This is nothing to do with snobbery of any sort," Ms Coleman insisted.

"I agree that there is a need for affordable housing in north London, but there are far more suitable sites in Enfield."

"It is about keeping our heritage – about keeping the beautiful green heart of north London. Not one resident has said to me, 'My house value will go down'."

Ms Coleman admitted that while the decision by the council was a setback for the campaign, she was refusing to give up.

She added that that even if the mayor backed the council's decision, then campaigners would band together to launch a judicial review.

"That will be the next step and at the moment we are in the process of gathering evidence for that," she said.

Synagogue saved despite dwindling numbers

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A SYNAGOGUE has been saved after the congregation voted to keep the place of worship open, even though numbers are dwindling.

After three members of the board of Palmers Green and Southgate Synagogue stepped down from their voluntary posts in May, more than one in ten of the congregation signed a petition calling on the United Synagogue, the body that governs synagogues nationally, to close it down.

However, at a special general meeting of the congregation called by the governing body on Sunday, the majority voted for the synagogue, in Brownlow Road, Palmers Green, to stay open.

But one member of the congregation, who wanted to remain anonymous, fears that keeping the synagogue open – but depending heavily on the United Synagogue – will mean the Jewish community in the area simply melts away.

He told the Advertiser: “With no new families coming to the area, unfortunately the congregation numbers will continue to dwindle and the synagogue will eventually lose its relevance to the local community.”

A spokesman from the United Synagogue said: “The special general meeting, which was called by members of the shul (synagogue), was carried out with respect and dignity.

“In this case, the community has elected to keep the synagogue running and we will now be

Rerieved: Palmers Green and Southgate Synagogue is staying open informing the whole community of the result and asking for members to come forward and take up the leadership positions within the shul executive and on the board of management.”

The spokesman added that without volunteers to help run the synagogue, much of the administration would fall to them.

According to figures from the United Synagogue, Palmers Green's male membership has dropped from 337 in 2000 to 180 today and the synagogue is in financial deficit.

EAT LIKE A CHAMP

with Diversity at The Danone Nations Cup World Final

Eat Like a Champ is an award-winning healthy eating education programme for primary schools created by Danone UK in collaboration with the British Nutrition Foundation, in support of Change 4 Life.

Eat Like a Champ's objective is to help tackle the growing issue of poor nutrition amongst children by inspiring them to adopt the healthier eating habits of stars they admire, in this case Britains Got Talent Winners, Diversity have been ambassadors since 2010. Independent research by the Children's Food Trust found that pupils who participated in Eat Like A Champ shifted their behaviours towards healthier eating habits.

In order to promote the initiative, Diversity will be doing a special performance at the Danone Nations Cup World Final at Wembley Stadium on September 7th. The Danone Nations Cup is the world's largest international football tournament for 10-12 year olds and has been running since 2000. From England to Indonesia, China to Mexico, up to 32 countries participate each year in making the dreams of some 2.5 million boys and girls come true through a unique and unforgettable experience.

In its 14 year history, this is the first time the event has come to the UK. The tournament showcases football's future stars who will have the chance to play in a series of competitive matches in front of footballing icons including Zinedine Zidane, Tom and Paul Ince.

There will be a festival atmosphere at the World Final and a host of entertainment for all the family including: face painters, football freestylers and loads of interactive stands promoting healthy eating and advice on how budding young players can Eat Like a Champ.

History shows the English have no excuse to be bad at learning other languages

A-LEVEL grades did not show an improvement this summer, so we missed the usual sneers from Conservative MPs about "grade inflation".

One statistic did catch the media's eye – the ten per cent drop in the numbers taking foreign language A-levels, which was a cue for all those traditional jokes about the English being rubbish at languages.

When I was working in London secondary schools, foreign languages were probably the most heartbreaking subject to teach.

The teaching strategies that were then fashionable required the pupils to speak the language aloud before they had a real idea of its structure.

Boys, in particular, often found this irritating. In any case, which foreign languages should our schools teach?

In other countries the choice is obvious – all children learn English. And not because it is the language of Shakespeare but because it is the language of global capitalism.

But if English is your native tongue, which is the next most useful language? Spanish? Chinese? Arabic?

It is simply not true that ordinary English people are naturally bad at learning languages. Take John Williams, the Edmonton missionary who was killed in Vanuatu in 1837, for example.

An uneducated sheet metalworker, he was sent by the London Missionary Society to the Pacific, where he learned a number of local languages simply by living among the people.

Williams went on to translate the gospels into the Rarotongan language – a task which necessitated not just learning Rarotongan but also inventing an alphabet in which it could, for the first time, be written.

Williams translated the gospels into the Rarotongan language – a task which necessitated not just learning Rarotongan but also inventing an alphabet in which it could be written

Throughout the 19th century and into the 20th, there were thousands of English missionaries, many of them from humble backgrounds, who mastered exotic languages.

We may not share their Christian piety, but if we want to learn a foreign language we can emulate their respect for native speakers and their determination to communicate.

Doug Taylor

Leader of Enfield Council

Prevention is better than cure, so make sure that you take up the chance of a flu vaccination

WE enjoy, at this time of year, the dappled sunshine of late summer and the beginning of leaves browning as trees prepare for the cold weather.

Even while we seek to hang on to summer shorts, we need to consider one particular aspect of winter.

Once again, this year, the NHS will be running its flu immunisation programme to protect those at greatest risk.

And Enfield Council is urging older people and those in high-risk groups to get themselves vaccinated.

The council took over the reins of public health in April this year.

And we are committed to putting public health at the heart of everything which we do to ensure everyone gets the best possible support to follow a healthier lifestyle.

Public health is about taking an holistic approach, making the healthy choice the easy choice, encouraging people to adopt a healthy lifestyle and promoting disease prevention.

That brings me neatly back to flu vaccines. The vaccination campaign aims to prevent serious illness and deaths from flu, reduce the spread and protect vulnerable people.

The vaccination programme aims to be as complete as possible before the virus starts to circulate.

In the very near future, GPs across Enfield will start receiving stocks of this year's flu vaccination – starting their seasonal flu campaign, inviting vulnerable patients to come in for vaccination and running vaccinations clinics.

I cannot stress enough how important it is that residents accept these invitations as they could literally be lifesavers.

As a council, I want us to do everything we possibly can to help residents stay healthy.

As someone once said, prevention is better than cure and this flu vaccination can be at the heart of that strategy.

Join consultation on stop and search, says youth leader

Speaking out: Youth worker Denise Richards

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN Edmonton youth worker is urging young people to participate in a consultation on police stop and search tactics.

Denise Richards, head of young people's services at Enfield Foyer, in Fore Street, Edmonton, which provides supported housing and advice for young people, says it is crucial those who have had negative experiences while being stopped and searched make their views known.

Police officers have a range of powers to stop and search individuals, including on suspicion of a drugs offence, carrying a weapon, impending violence and terrorism.

A consultation was launched on July 2 by Home Secretary Theresa May, who told the House of Commons of her concerns that people who have done nothing wrong are stopped too often and that young black men are targeted disproportionately, harming community relations.

The consultation period has been extended from August 4 to September 24 and a more accessible online form was made available by the Home Office in late July.

"My initial concerns were that the consultation time period was too short and that the documents were inaccessible to young people," said Miss Richards. "Because of the negative experiences a lot of young people have with police and stop and search, they don't trust the law and I felt more time was needed to explain the purpose of the consultation."

In March, an investigation by the Advertiser found that police in Enfield carried out 9,801 searches in 2012 – a 44 per cent drop on 2011.

Black people in Enfield were almost twice as likely to be stopped and searched than others.

Miss Richards added: "Young black men continue to be targeted disproportionately, often because they dress a certain way, and we really have to move on from that mindset."

"And a lot of young people do not know how to complain when they feel they have been treated unfairly. They are often not made aware of their rights. I do believe in stop and search as a tactic, because it can save lives, but it must be applied proportionally and this consultation must involve a wide range of people."

The consultation can be accessed online at <http://www.smartsurvey.co.uk/s/86031CQFRP>

Orphanage horrors sparked fundraiser

Nursery worker leapt into action after Romania trip

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A NURSERY worker was so appalled by the misery she witnessed on a trip to Romania that she is gearing up for a fundraising extravaganza.

Irena Kyriacou, 23, of Westerham Avenue, Edmonton, is single-handedly organising a Funday Sunday on September 15 in the parish centre of St Monica's Church, in Cannon Hill, Palmers Green.

All the money raised will be donated to building better orphanages for children in poverty-stricken conditions across the world.

The 23-year-old nursery practitioner, who works at the King Fahad Academy in Acton, west London, was spurred into action after a charity mission to Romania, where she witnessed horrific conditions in state-run orphanages.

"What we saw there was really upsetting," Irena told the Advertiser. "The children are just secluded in their rooms all day.

"They sleep on metal beds - it's freezing cold and they barely have any clothes on them. There were hardly any carers looking after them and they were actually shocked to see people.

"When we went into one room, three little children hid under the bed and one of them hit me because they just weren't used to people coming into their rooms."

"There is not a day that goes past that I don't think of those children."

Irena launched her fundraising mission after discovering the Little & Large charitable trust in Southgate - which works to upgrade and improve orphanages all over the world - and has devised a day of family fun and activities, even featuring the major celebrity attraction of Peppa Pig.

As well as food, drink and games, she has a luxury raffle planned with one of the top prizes a signed Arsenal shirt.

She added: "Since I was little I have always wanted to do things for people who haven't had the same things as me - to make things a little bit better for others - and I hope we raise a really fantastic amount of money. Any help we can get would be fantastic."

Tickets do not have to be bought in advance and admission will cost £1 on the door. The fun will run from noon to 4pm.

Free childcare available for two-year-olds

PARENTS of more than 1,000 two-year-olds in the borough are now entitled to free childcare.

The government has introduced the 15 hours of free education for 1,300 of Enfield's poorest families.

The scheme has been rolled out for families who qualify for free school meals or those who are looked after by Enfield Council.

Next year the free childcare will be extended to families who earn less than £16,200 and receive working tax credits, as well as those with children who have been adopted, are in care or have a disability or special educational need.

Marking the scheme's introduction Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg, pictured, said: "This free support is focused on helping the families who need it most."

"All the evidence shows that if you take two children – two five-year-olds hanging up their coats next to each other on the first day of school – the poorer child will already be behind the better-off classmate before a single lesson has been taught."

"Without this help, children suffer and the class suffers as teachers have to focus more of their efforts on children who are frustrated and left behind through no fault of their own."

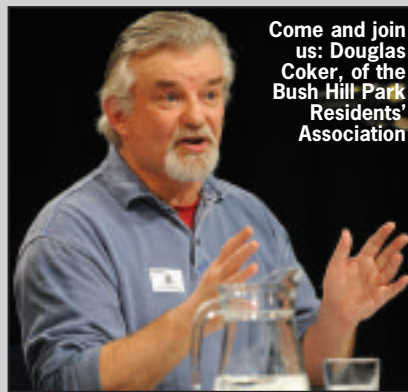

The introduction of this scheme has forced the council to re-evaluate care provided at children's centres.

A consultation ended in July and the results are being analysed.

The council is expected to make a decision soon on how many places for under-tuos will be available in the future.

The scheme is costing the government £534million this year, providing 130,000 children nationally with free childcare.

Residents' association seeks younger blood

Come and join us: Douglas Coker, of the Bush Hill Park Residents' Association

PEOPLE living in Bush Hill Park are invited to the annual meeting of the area's residents' association.

The meeting will take place at Bush Hill Park Bowls, Tennis and Social Club, in Abbey Road, and the annual gathering will see new officers elected for the branch.

The evening, called Reaching the Residents, will also include a talk by the ward's Labour MP Andy Love and a councillor who will explain their roles in the community.

Committee member Douglas Coker said: "We've had a couple of people move away and some are getting more elderly and unable to do what they did in the past, so we are ideally looking for younger people with more energy."

"It's an important part of civil society. Associations can act as an aid to solving problems."

Volunteers will be required to attend a monthly meeting and must be willing to help residents with issues that arise there, helping them to understand the systems of local authorities.

The association also stages hustings for candidates during election periods.

The meeting, on September 19, starts at 7.30pm.

Nicole, nine, is a great inspiration

By Vanessa Ornskov
news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

A YOUNG girl with a rare illness will be rewarded for her bravery and named most inspirational child in next week's 2013 WellChild Awards.

Nine-year-old Nicole Christou, from Winchmore Hill, was six when she was diagnosed with an arteriovenous malformation, which causes her to bleed from her nose, mouth, gums and eyes at any time.

Nikki's award came as a surprise. Her consultant dermatologist Mary Glover, from Great Ormond Street Hospital, secretly nominated her for exceptional courage. She said: "Nikki is remarkable in the way she remains calm and tries to make things better for those around her."

When the little girl found out about her award, she was very ill and decided to undergo a ninth operation last week so that she could attend the ceremony.

"It feels so amazing that one of my doctors nominated me," Nikki told the Advertiser.

Nikki's illness has caused her to lose sight in her right eye and miss out on much of her childhood as she is unable to go to school and play with other kids for fear of bleeding.

The brave girl is recovering and looking forward to wearing her new purple and gold "bubble dress" to collect her award.

The Butterfly AVM Charity, founded by her parents Tanya and George, was Nikki's idea after she was diagnosed.

The charity has raised more than £70,000 through donations, school fairs, baking, marathons and triathlons towards research into the condition at Great Ormond Street.

Nikki has raised money by doing odd jobs, such as gardening and cleaning, for her neighbours.

Her mother Tanya said: "She really is an inspiration. Despite all of this, her smile goes on. The treatments are keeping her condition under control, but there is no cure."

Her father George added: "It's about awareness and support, not only for Nikki but all AVM survivors. There needs to be more research. We have hope through the hardship"

The WellChild Awards are taking place next Wednesday at the Dorchester Hotel, in Park Lane, central London, and will feature royal patron Prince Harry and celebrity guests including singer Rod Stewart and comedian Russell Howard.

Drumming up support: Simon Cooper's band will be playing at the fundraising gig on Saturday evening

Musician staging show in aid of hospital where he had life-saving transplant

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MUSICIAN who had a double lung transplant just over a year ago will be celebrating his new lease of life with a fundraiser in aid of the hospital which treated him.

Simon Cooper, 30, of South Lodge Drive, Oakwood, is organising Woodedz + Support in aid of Papworth Hospital, in Cambridge.

The live band night with a rock 'n' roll flavour is taking place at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, on Saturday evening.

Simon, who suffers from cystic fibrosis, underwent a life-saving double lung transplant operation at Papworth in August 2012.

He plays the drums and is now using his musical connections in a bid to raise money for the hospital's transplant unit.

Saturday's event will see Status Quo bassist John "Rhino" Edwards take to the stage with rock band Woodedz.

And Simon's own band Back to Square One, which also includes his father Paul, 52, as singer and guitarist, will also be performing.

Simon told the Advertiser: "Before my transplant my lung capacity had gone down to 16 per cent.

"I needed to wear oxygen support 24/7 and I could only perform for around 45 minutes before having to take a break.

"At the moment my oxygen levels are now at 85 per cent, which is better than most people. The transplant has really changed my life."

Apart from giving something back to the hospital, Simon, who also had a liver transplant more than a decade ago, is keen to highlight the importance of blood and organ donation in saving the lives of people with conditions similar to his.

He added: "For my operation to be successful the equivalent of 40 individual blood donations were required.

"I now spend quite a lot of time going to events to encourage as many people as possible to become blood and organ donors.

"In Wales they are proposing to sign people up to the donor register by default and I think that is the way it should be."

For more information about becoming a donor and to sign up, visit www.organ-donation.nhs.uk

Advance tickets for Saturday's event cost £10. Doors open at 7pm.

Contact the box office on 020 8807 6680 or visit www.dugdalecentre.co.uk to book tickets.

COMPETITION

2012 LAURENCE HARVEY

A big hand for...Jim Whitley (Sammy Davis Jnr), Richard Shelton (Frank Sinatra) and Mark Halliday (Dean Martin) will be starring in Rat Pack Live at Millfield Theatre

Win pair of tickets to Rat Pack Live at Millfield Theatre

MILLFIELD Theatre is playing host to the stars of Rat Pack Live on Thursday, October 3.

And while some of the faces from the West End show may be familiar, the spectacular, which is coming to the theatre in Silver Street, Edmonton, is a new version featuring the kings of swing – Sammy Davis Jnr, Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra.

Acclaimed performer Mark Halliday takes on the role of Dean Martin, one he has played in the West End as well as in international touring productions.

Show producer Michael Taylor said: "Mark carries off Dino's stage presence to a tee.

"Spirit glass in one hand, microphone in the other, he captures Martin's polished irreverence on beautifully performed songs like Ain't That A Kick In The Head, Mambo Italiano and That's Amore."

Richard Shelton also brings plenty of West End experience as Frank Sinatra, having starred as Ol' Blue Eyes in hit show Rat Pack Confidential.

And Jim Whitley, who was once a first-team footballer with Manchester City and played internationally for Northern Ireland, takes on the role of Sammy Davis Jnr. Whitley has previously performed alongside Judy Carmichael at New York's Rainbow Rooms.

Michael said: "The talented trio combine 'swingstationally' in Rat Pack Live."

Next month's show will feature all the patter and razzmatazz of the Rat Pack's infamous live stage show. So prepare to experience the definition of cool.

And we have teamed up with the producers of Rat Pack Live to offer one lucky reader the chance of winning a pair of tickets to the show.

To be in with a chance of winning, just answer the following question:

Who plays Dean Martin in the show?

- a) Jim Whitley
- b) Richard Shelton
- c) Mark Halliday

Send your answer, along with your name, address and a daytime phone number, to Rat Pack Live Competition, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT. Alternatively, email your answer, plus all of your contact details, to jim.brock@nlhnews.co.uk with "Rat Pack Live" as the subject matter.

Entries close on Friday, September 13, and usual North London & Herts Newspapers competition rules apply.

The winner will be drawn at random and no cash alternative will be available.

Tickets for the show, which starts at 8pm, cost £22 from the box office on 020 8807 6680.

Talented trio: A 'swingtastic' night is promised when the three singers come to town

Bedtime story: Rachel McAdams and Domhnall Gleeson star in About Time

About Time
(12A, 123 minutes)
ALL good things must come to an end.
As a writer and more recently a director, Richard Curtis has warmed the cockles of the nation's heart with his rose-tinted romantic comedies which suggest that every bumbling, accident-prone Englishman gets the impossibly beautiful girl with a combination of expletives, dry humour and good fortune.
Our love affair with Curtis started in 1994 with Four Weddings and a Funeral, which earned him an Oscar nomination for his screenplay, and it has continued unabated through Bean, Notting Hill, Bridget Jones's Diary, Love Actually and various sequels.

About Time is purportedly his final film (as a director – he'll carry on writing) and it is a fittingly amusing and heartbreaking swansong.
Set largely in London with occasional forays to the picturesque Cornish coast, this bittersweet romcom concerns not only saying goodbye to the people you love, but also bidding farewell to childhood and the safety net of a parent's guiding hand.
Admittedly, Curtis is guilty of old habits.
His characters are almost exclusively white, and upper middle class and seem to be able to afford sizeable properties in the capital despite modest salaries.
Once you accept that realism is a distant stranger to certain elements of the writing, About Time casts a heady spell on the audience. Shortly after he turns 21 years old, nice guy Tim (Domhnall Gleeson) is ushered into the office of his father (Bill Nighy) for a revealing heart-to-heart talk.

"Get ready for spooky time," begins the old man with a twinkle in his eye, revealing that Tim harks from a long line of male time travellers, who can go back along their own timeline to correct past mistakes and relive fond memories.
Tim is stunned by his father's outlandish claim and with obvious scepticism he heads for the nearest dark cupboard and clenches his fists as instructed.
Sure enough, Tim is able to skip back through his personal history.
The young man begins to master this new skill, which comes in very handy when he crosses paths with an insecure beauty, Mary (Rachel McAdams), and bumbles their first meeting.

With the benefit of time travel, Tim corrects wrinkles in the relationship and romance duly blossoms.
However, every correction risks ripples through time and Tim gradually learns that there are some imperfections which must never be smoothed.
"All the time travel in the world can't make someone love you," Tim's father reminds him sagely and tenderly.
About Time is a treat.
Cast in the everyman role usually reserved for Hugh Grant, Gleeson is a loveable hero and catalyses wonderful screen chemistry with McAdams and Nighy.
Laughter abounds, tempered by the poignancy of sequences between Tim and his father, which are among Curtis' finest work on the page.
Secrete plenty of handkerchiefs about your person – the final 15 minutes will wring you dry.

Criminally disappointing

By Koos Couvée
koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

SOME stories do not sit comfortably on stage. And I certainly got that idea when I saw Bonnie and Clyde: A New Musical Love Story.

Written and produced by Linnie Reedman, and with music by Joe Evans, this musical version at the King's Head, in Islington, fails to add to earlier versions of this tale of love and crime.

Against the backdrop of the Great Depression in early 1930s America, Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow's notorious crime spree generated enormous media coverage which embarrassed law enforcement and government officials across several southern states.

The story was immortalised by Arthur Penn's 1967 landmark film starring Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway.

Penn's masterpiece is a road movie, in which the Barrow gang rob banks and grocery stores, steal dozens of cars and never stay anywhere for longer than one night.

The basic plot remains in Reedman's musical, but because the wooden stage does not change, it is hard to escape the idea that the characters are always in the same place.

It also means that the audience is deprived of any of the bank robberies, shoot-outs and hit-and-runs which made the film so exciting.

The first half of the show, which lasts two hours with a 15-minute interval, moves at a painfully slow pace and it is difficult to ascertain what drives Bonnie (Samantha Louise Clark) and Clyde (Tom Sword) on their crime-ridden path.

Despite sporting a great haircut, Sword cuts an unconvincing criminal - and his romance with Bonnie fails to shine. It is also peculiar that Sheriff Frank Hamer (James Lloyd Pegg) - known for tracking down and killing the duo in Texas in 1934 - is included in the story right from the start.

The best performer is Blanche (Emma Jane-Martin), the preacher's daughter married to Clyde's brother Buck, who desperately tries to persuade Bonnie and Clyde to leave their life of crime.

This production is redeemed somewhat by Joe Evans' jazzy music, with its acoustic delivery perfectly suited for this intimate venue.

Clyde picks up the saxophone from time to time - a historical detail cleverly added by Reedman.

The King's Head is a fine venue and in financial difficulty - it is a double shame therefore that this musical fails to inspire.

Cashing in on Catchment Areas

Supply and demand plays a large part in the state of the property market but this is especially pertinent in the capital. Areas constantly move in and out of favour, regeneration is accelerated and people are nudged out to less salubrious postcodes as prices escalate, which in turn pushes prices up in previously neglected parts of London.

The Ofsted factor

Often there is a gradual rise in popularity – and hence asking price – but occasionally an overlooked area can rise to the fore almost overnight, creating a rush of demand, with little stock to supply it. This could be word-of-mouth, as people discover that they can afford larger properties in an adjacent postcode; or it might be an increase in amenities or transport options. However, with good state schools acting like so much gold dust scattered around London, something as simple as an 'Outstanding' Ofsted report can push up local housing demand and those fortunate enough to be located in the catchment area might wake up to find their house has increased in value by 50k overnight. Sealing the deal When this happens, fraught parents of young children rush to snap up houses as close to the school gates as possible and are prepared to pay over the odds in order to ensure a quality education. Much has been discussed and written about the fairness of a system that enables more affluent parents to essentially buy their way into a catchment area. However for those with the wherewithal and means to do so, it remains a common practise and results in pockets of postcodes enjoying exponential property price growth, whilst streets outside the catchment area struggle to compete. Developing dreams This scenario hasn't gone unnoticed by canny developers who pounce on these prized properties and are able to exceed regular profit expectations by renovating houses precisely to fit the requirements of young families. As school application deadlines approach, people are happy to pay a premium for a newly refurbished family home in the catchment of an 'Outstanding' school.

Property tips

Historically the best time to sell a property is during spring & autumn, other times the market tends to slow down – summer is holiday season, whilst winter is interrupted with Christmas & New Year celebrations. If a property is sold while the market is buoyant, it's much more likely to attract the asking price.

BELVOIR!

the lettings specialist

How do you choose your Lettings Agent?

The average property price in Enfield in the past year was over £260,000. That's a substantial amount of money by anyone's standards. So whether you are building a property portfolio or are part of the growing number of 'accidental' landlords who have found themselves with a property to let, through inheritance for example, it makes sense to protect your investment. This is after all likely to be the biggest financial commitment you will ever make after your own home.

With that in mind, it does puzzle me why so many people focus solely on monthly percentage fees when selecting their Lettings Agents.

If you recognise that you need an Agent to manage your property for you, then the top level fee should not be your primary consideration. One agent may cost more per month than another but if the cheaper agent doesn't include an inventory and rent insurance then is it actually a false economy? What is the true cost to you when you either pay for these items separately or go without altogether?

Make sure you read the small print and understand exactly what you will (and will not) be getting for your money before you sign on the dotted line.

If you have questions about any aspect of letting your property or are thinking of making a buy to let investment please contact me.

Alternatively please come and see me at the Enfield Town Autumn Show this weekend in Enfield Town Park.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
 - Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
 - Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
 - Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
 - Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
 - Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- When an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors. Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:
1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. Classified Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

14. Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

15. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

16. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
17. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

18. The publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
19. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

BALE SEALS REAL MOVE

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

GARETH BALE insists that he will look back on his time at Tottenham Hotspur with fond memories after finally completing his world-record transfer to Real Madrid.

Following protracted summer-long negotiations, the Welsh star made the move to Real Madrid for a reported £85.3million on Sunday and – despite the fairly acrimonious nature of his departure – Bale was quick to express his gratitude at the role Spurs have played in his development.

“I have had six very happy years at Tottenham, but it’s the right time to say goodbye,” he said. “We’ve had some special times together over the years, and I’ve loved every minute of it.”

“I would like to thank everyone at the club – the chairman, board, staff, coaches, players and most of all the fantastic fans who I hope will understand this amazing career opportunity.”

“I am well aware that I would not be at the level I am today were it not for firstly Southampton and then Spurs standing by me during some of the tougher times and affording me the environment and support they have.”

“Tottenham will always be in my heart and I’m sure that this season will be a successful one for them. I am now looking forward to the next exciting chapter in my life, playing football for Real Madrid.”

Chairman Daniel Levy made it clear that he was disappointed to see Bale leave, but that he felt he had no option other than to finally agree the deal.

“Gareth was a player we had absolutely no intention of selling as we look to build for the future,” he said. “He is a player whose career we have fostered and developed, and he was only a year into his new four-year contract.”

“Such has been the attention from Real Madrid and so great is Gareth’s desire to join them that we have taken the view that the player will not be sufficiently committed to our campaign in the current season.”

“We have, therefore, with great reluctance, agreed to this sale and do so in the knowledge that we have an exceptionally strong squad to which we have added no fewer than seven top internationals.”

“We wish Gareth all the best in the future, and he will always be welcome at the Lane.”

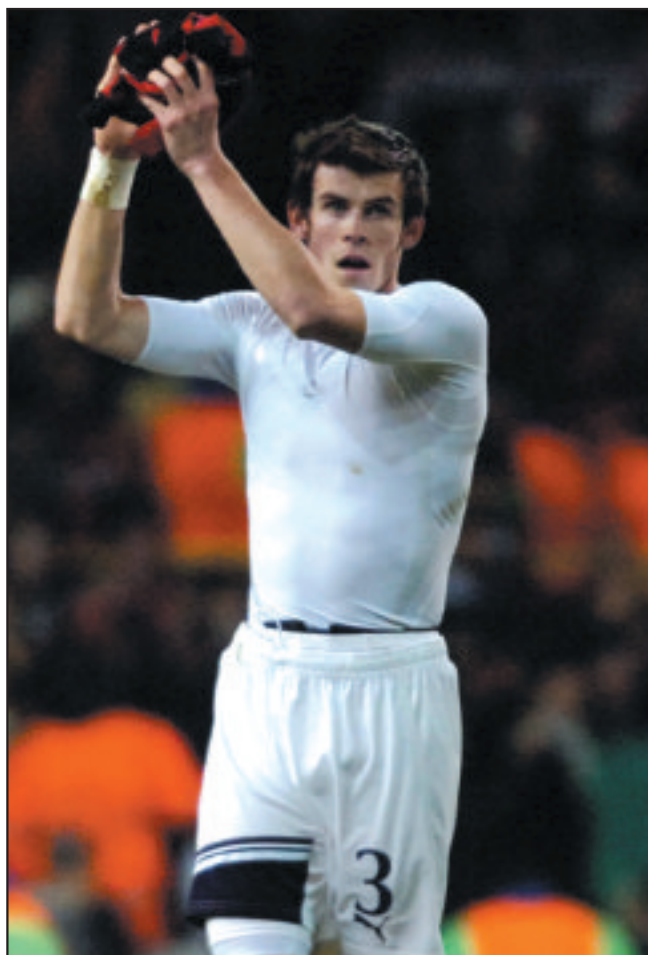

Tottenham ended the transfer window as the Premier League’s biggest spenders following Friday’s triple swoop which saw them sign Romanian defender Vlad Chiriches, Danish playmaker Christian Eriksen and Argentina forward Erik Lamela.

And Lamela, who made his debut as a second-half substitute in Sunday’s 1-0 defeat at Arsenal, is delighted to have joined Spurs.

“I’m really happy to be here,” he said. “It’s a great move for me and I’m looking forward to doing my best for the team.”

“I like the English style of football, it’s very offensive and attacking and that’s how I want to play.”

“I have to adapt to playing in the Premier League as quickly as I can.”

Skolars miss out on home play-off clash

THE London Skolars face a trip to Rochdale Hornets in the first round of rugby league’s Kingstone Presss Championship One play-offs after having to settle for a 30-30 draw at Oxford on Sunday on the final day of the regular season.

The Skolars went into the match knowing that victory would secure third spot in the table and a home tie but, despite racing into a 12-0 lead, they had to settle for a share of the points as they dropped down into fourth place.

It took the visitors just two minutes to open the scoring through a John Paxton try, and they extended the lead on 24 minutes as Mike Worrincy burst over the line. Dylan Skee converted both tries.

However, Oxford hit back and a three-try burst from Alex Thompson, Matty Hadden and Lenny Calladine helped them to move 14-12 ahead by half-time.

The hosts continued to hold the upper hand after the interval and tries from Oliver Johnson and Tommy Connick saw them extend their advantage to 12 points.

An Andy McLean try reduced the Skolars’ deficit before a scuffle ended with the visitors’ Olly Purslow and Oxford’s Colin Clarke both being dismissed on 63 minutes.

Shortly after this, Skee latched on to a grubber kick to score a try which he converted to leave the Skolars just two points adrift.

A Matt Viander try put Oxford further ahead, but the conversion was crucially missed and the visitors snatched a draw courtesy of Rob Thomas’ late converted try.

Comprehensive victory seals North Middlesex’s promotion

AN EMPHATIC 118-run victory at home to Harrow St Mary’s saw North Middlesex seal promotion to the top flight of the Middlesex County Cricket League on Saturday.

Evan Flowers made 68, while Sam Webber and Tom Nicoll chipped in with 45 and 42 respectively as North Middlesex amassed 224 batting first, with Lakmal Kasthuri taking 5-105.

The home bowlers then took centre stage as they produced a superb display to bowl out Harrow St Mary’s for just 106, with Will Nicoll (3-25), Ed Bird (3-36) and Tom Nicoll (2-2) doing most of the damage.

Meanwhile, Hornsey are still in danger of relegation from Division One heading into the final day of the season after suffering a two-wicket defeat at home to Twickenham.

Having decided to bat first, Paul Weekes top-scored with 63 as the hosts declared on 225-9. Parminder Singh (4-58) was the pick of the bowlers.

Weekes continued his fine day by taking 4-66 when Twickenham replied, but Carlos Nunes’ 102 proved decisive as the visitors made it to 226-8.

Elsewhere, Highgate kept their hopes of sealing promotion from Division Three alive by easing to a seven-wicket win at Wembley.

Tom Duckett took 5-53 as the hosts were bowled out for 163, before Neil Brunner (64 not out), Ed Binns (44) and Carman Mapatuna (43 not out) all batted well to help Highgate reach 164-3.

But there was disappointment for North London as they lost by six wickets at home to newly crowned champions Enfield.

Hornsey go to Richmond on Saturday, while North Middlesex visit Brentham, Highgate host Barnes and North London are at Edmonton.

Sunday sees Hornsey taking on Teddington in the Middlesex Cup final at Enfield Cricket Club.
